

Love has no labels!

Love has no limits and no labels, the above video is an example of that!

Valentine's day is a day to celebrate love and the people close to you. So take the chance and give your significant other some special attention, hug your best friend or gather the courage to talk to that special someone.

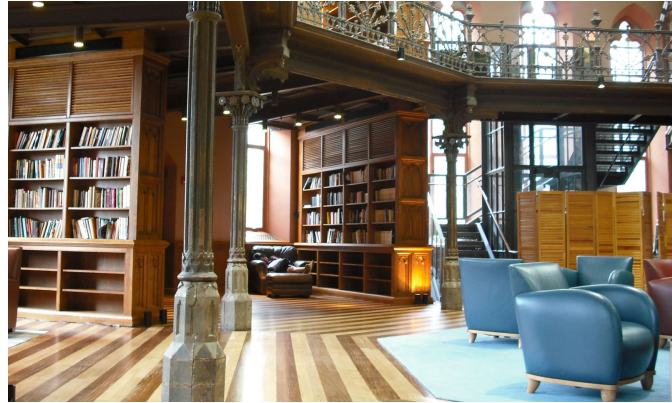

Why not give a nice gift to someone that matters a little bit more - maybe a personal book?

Book of Love Letters of my parents.

So happy with how my books came out. They were a compilation of love letters my father had found after my mother's passing. Ranging from their high school years, my father's military years and after us kids were born and dad worked out of town for the railroad. The program was so easy to use, I simply copied and pasted the letters I had already typed in WORD. I intend to gift a book to each of my five siblings once my 84 year old father is gone. The books are very professionally done, and I couldn't be happier. They are beyond what I expected. I would definitely recommend Solentro.
